

HOUSING AND RESIDENTIAL EXPERIENCE

Columbia College Chicago

30 E. BALBO DRIVE

Meet 30 East, Columbia's newest addition to its residence centers with room for 340 students. Kick back in apartment-style spaces with an en-suite bathroom, with two to five students per residence, and take advantage of the full kitchen. And don't forget the location—you'll be steps from the Student Center and one block from Grant Park.

THE ARC

Formerly known as the Old Colony Building, this architectural masterpiece was converted into modern apartments in 2015. Housing options include double-occupancy and private bedrooms in shared apartments. Amenities include a study lounge with computers and free printing, 24-hour fitness center, rooftop oasis with gas grills, game room and bike storage.

THE DWIGHT

Built in 1911 as the headquarters of the Dwight Brothers Paper Company, the Dwight was home to multiple independent printing and binding shops. A classic example of the "company lofts" style, the building became a landmark in the Printers Row area of Chicago. While the building has been wholly renovated, its spirit has been preserved.

THE UNIVERSITY CENTER

The University Center (UC) has created a home away from home for around 1,700 students from Columbia and other nearby universities. The UC features a fitness center, multimedia rooms, music practice rooms, an art studio, study rooms and a game room, along with laundry facilities, a kitchen on every floor, and bicycle storage.
